

Federica Morandi: is assistant professor of Organization Theory at Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Faculty of Economics, Department of Management Studies. From 2012 to 2018 she served as Research Fellow at the same university, and from 2006 to 2009 she attended the Ph.D. program in Economic and Management of Healthcare Organizations, at Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore. From 2020 she is the Director of the Academic Programs in Altems (Graduate School of Economic and Management of healthcare systems), Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore. She is also Responsible for the research activities of Patient Advocacy Associations Lab- (ALTEMS). She received two awards for research activities from the Academy of Management (2011) and from the Assioa (Italian association of organization studies), (2010). During 2017 she was visiting scholar (short term) at ISCTE-IUL Lisbon (Portugal) and at the Tillburg University (Holland) at the Department of Organization Studies- School of Social Behavioural Sciences. Her research interests span both organizational models in healthcare and human resource management and organizational behaviors. Federica Morandi co-authored more than 20 scientific papers both in international and national peer-reviewed journals and about 10 book chapters. She is also author of a monography entitled “Managerial solutions to hospital challenges” edited by Nova Science Publishers, 2016. Federica Morandi has given a large number of presentations at International and National Conferences.